Dear Friend:

I am sure your staff has informed you of the many calls I have made to your office, in an effort to contact you. I had expected the courtesy of a reply of some kind by this time.

I came to see you over three months ago, in reference to the business about which I am now writing, which to me is very important. You promised me at that time you would get to work on it at an early date. I can fully understand and appreciate the fact that you are very busy, but I cannot understand or appreciate one who I have asked to act as my Counsellor acting in this way.

If you have not the time to take care of this matter for me, will you please let me know. If it is necessary to have some one else take care of it, will you advise them what the situation is? I am sure there are little details with which you are familiar that would simplify matters.

I will appreciate hearing from you by the 1st of the month at the latest. The new setup should have been taken care of by the first of the year,

Very Truly Yours
